DAG Architects Appoints Ken Greene Associate Principal

Significant growth requires additional office leadership for long-term strategy

"An amazing colleague who best represents DAG Architects' work, values, and principles."

Destin, FL —DAG Architects (DAG) announces the promotion of Kenneth Greene, AIA, to Associate Principal. Ken will expand his influence and design expertise to continue DAG's legacy of proven results. Since first joining DAG in 2005, Greene has been a leader in establishing our culture of design excellence. He has been a designer, architect, and project manager on more than 150 projects including K-12 schools, mixed-use developments, multi-family housing, parks and recreation facilities, office buildings, retail, and more.

In 2020, he was promoted to Associate. In 2023, Greene passed his Florida Architecture Registration Examination to become a licensed architect and has continuously proven himself as an innovative leader who uses his talent to help design some of DAG's most prolific works.

DAG Architects' Managing Principal, Roger Godwin, AIA, said, "Ken is an amazing colleague who best represents DAG Architects' work, values, and principles. His promotion to Associate Principal is well-deserved, and we are proud to recognize him for his commitment to our firm and to our high design standards. Ken is a creative and talented designer who is also an outstanding leader for our young staff members. I've had the good fortune to work with him many times over the past 17 years, and I believe our staff and clients will benefit from his knowledge, skill, and passion" Mr. Godwin said. Ken is based in DAG's Tallahassee office, located in the Cascades mixed-use project —designed in part by Ken.
